State Payroll Up in January

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Illinois' total state payroll went up from $122-588,303 in January to $126,607,523
in February, State Auditor Orville E. Hodge said today.

The boost was due to small increases in payrolls in a number of branches and agencies of state government. No single office had an unusually large increase. The University of Illinois showed the only sizeable drop in employment, being down 263 employees from January.

Constitutional office payrolls increased from $1,107,794 in January to $1,114,349 in February, with number of employees upped from 3,114 to 3,330.

Code departments had a payroll of $7,180,733 in February compared
to $7,129,572 the previous month.
Employees went from 25,996 to 26, 042.

Major boards and commissions increased from a January payroll of $672,351 to $672,780 in February, while minor miscellaneous independent boards and commissions went up from $324,718 to $330,117.

The University of Illinois paid $2,374,958 in January and dropped to $2,455,864 in February. The five state colleges had a total payroll of $873,677 in February compared
to $88,928 the previous month.

California's 18 national forests comprise one-fifth of the state's area.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Mc-Carthy Nursing Oppenheimer
And H-Bomb Delay As Trump
Card; H-Bomb Was Delayed Three Months By Honest Issues; A. E. Chairman Lili-enthal Opposed Hydrogen Bomb.

WASHINGTON. — It is no secret that Joe McCarthy has been nursing as a trump card the charge that Communists held up production of the hydrogen bomb and that Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, one-time head of Los Alamos, was responsible. Joe had planned to spring this charge in his Texas speech April 21 so its headlines would blanket the newspapers next day when the Senate probe of the McCarthy-Cohn-Army fracas begins.

It has also been no secret that the H-bomb was delayed — not 18 months as Joe alleged — but for about three months. And the story of the delay was published in this column on Jan. 23, 1950, before Joe made any of his charges about communism in government.

The backstage story did not involve communistic motives, but, as Chairman Sterling Cole of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee,
a Republican, has stated, honest differences of opinion.

Four years have passed since the question of whether or not the U.
S. A. should build the hydrogen bomb was debated by the Truman cabinet, and during that time many people have forgotten the doubts and misgivings of that period. They have also forgotten how Henry L.
Stimson, a Republican who served in the cabinets of Taft and Hoover, proposed to Truman that the United States share the secret of the atomic bomb with Russia. Elder Statesman Stimson, no traitor to his country, was overruled by Truman, but he sincerely believed at that time, 1945, that we could still get along with Russia and should share our most precious secret.

BACKSTAGE STORY

Here are excerpts from the story of the hydrogen-bomb debate, as recorded in this column when the battle was hot, Jan. 23, 1950, four years before McCarthy decided to dig it up as a national issue:

"At a secret meeting with General Bradley, Atomic Energy Chairman Lilienthal made a last-ditch, emotional plea against the hydrogen bomb. In effect, he said: 'We must exhaust every means of reaching an agreement with Russia to outlaw atomic warfare before we make this bomb.
We should appeal over the heads of the Kremlin to the Russian people.
They will force Stalin to come to terms.'

"Lilienthal speaks for a tormented group of scientists who made the atomic bombs used at Hiroshima and Nagasaki and who agreed — somewhat against their better judgment — that the bombs should be dropped on enemy cities.

"It is still a secret in the files of the Manhattan district, but the atomic scientists were sharply divided into three groups. One did not want the bomb used at all.
They urged that the President announce that we had the bomb and would use it unless the enemy surrendered.

"Group No. 2 wanted the atomic bomb dropped over an uninhab-ited area as a warning.

"Group No. 3 approved the action taken at Hiroshima. This included Dr. Robert Oppenheimer and Dr. Harold Urey.

"But when the photographs of seared flesh and the medical reports from Nagasaki and Hiroshima came back, these scientists went through the tortures of the damned. Their souls were on fire, and they started a burning private

Americans to Parade in Brand-New Easter Finery, Buying Reports Indicate

By United Press

More Americans than ever will be dolled up in brand-new finery for this year's Easter parade, reports from stores indicated today.

The reports were supported by government figures which showed that buying for the second week before Easter jumped 16 per cent, about equal to last year. An expert interpreted other figures as showing little decline in Easter business from 1952.

Clothing and department stores
in Washington, Chicago, Salt Lake City, Des Moines, San Francisco,
Milwaukee, Memphis, Dallas, Lincoln, Neb., Indianapolis, and Springfield, Ill., said Easter sales matched—or even exceeded—last year's.

Miami was an exception, however.

B. B. Freeland, president of Byron's Department Store, said
"business is running about 10 per cent under last year and we can't put our finger on any one reason."
About Same in Chicago
Other retailers in the resort city thought the holiday's late date might be a factor since many Northern vacationists have returned home.

Tallahassee, Los Angeles, and Richmond, Va., proprietors said business was just slightly below last year.

A spokesman for Carson, Pirie, Scott at Chicago said Easter sales this year were "about the same"
as in 1953.

Some retailers expressed disappointment concerning the recent reduction in excise taxes.

"We thought customers were holding off in anticipation of the tax cut," one said. "But we haven't seen any difference since it went into effect."

Capital to Have Bright Parade

If department store sales are indicative, the new Republican residents in Washington will give the capital its brightest Easter parade in years. Retailers were exultant about sales there.

"We're doing fine," a spokesman for Jeleff's said. "We had much low last year. Men's suits in blended fabrics sold well and the demand for children's wear at least equalled last year.

Dun & Bradstreet, however, said sales probably will be slightly be-

True or False?
The belief that pan-beating will bring down a swarm of bees is very old, but modern authorities give it no credence. Aristotle mentions it in his writings, and the poet Virgil states it as a fact in the Fourth Georgic. The custom is practiced widely throughout the world today.

Travis; children's work, Mrs. Arthur Moore; youth, Mrs. C. E. Wing; student work, Mrs. Harold Parker; literature and publication, Mrs. C. E. Mrs. C. E. Wing, newly-elected conference officer, presented the goal chart for the quarter, outlining work accomplished. An offering was given for retired missionaries and deaconesses which will be presented at a dedicatory service at the Milwaukee assembly in May.

It was announced that those wishing memorial flowers placed on the altar at Easter, either contact Mrs. J. O. Hall or Mrs. Herman Schwartz. The closing meeting in May with a picnic luncheon will be held at the Russler cabin.

Social Hour Precedes First Baptist WMU Program On South American Missions

Perhaps there is NOT "a lot of coffee in Brazil" just now, but there was plenty of coffee, served with delicious homemade cake, to emphasize the South American theme during the social hour immediately preceding the Royal Service program of the First Baptist church Thursday afternoon, April 15, held in the lower church parlors.

After the social period members and guests adjourned to the church auditorium for the regular monthly Royal Service meeting. The afternoon's service, with the theme "Medical Missions in South America," was in charge of Mrs. Mima Woolard and other members of the Helen Sherer circle. Those taking part in the program presentation were Mrs. Loren Lucas, Mrs. Stanley Price, Mrs. John Sisk, Mrs. Roy Rieley, Mrs. Merle Guard, Mrs. Daisy Rude and Mrs. Woolard.

Mention was made particularly of the Baptist hospitals in Baranquilla, Colombia and Asuncion, Paraguay, the great good that has been done by these two institutions among the people of those countries, and the need of hospitals, particularly for trained national doctors and nurses. The service was closed with prayer by Mrs. O. C. Heatherly, W. M. U. president.

At the beginning of the afternoon's session each one present was given a program booklet in the shape of the continent of South America. The cities in which Southern Baptists have mission work were located on the front cover of the booklet, and the ladies were asked to keep the booklets to use as prayer reminders for the mission work in South America.

Bishop Sheil to Get Award Last Given to McCarthy

CHICAGO (AP)—The Most Rev. Bernard J. Sheil, Roman Catholic bishop who strongly criticized Sen. Joseph McCarthy in a speech last week, will receive an award next Tuesday that was last presented to the Wisconsin senator.

The Central Lions Club of Chicago will give the bishop its award of merit in recognition of his services to the youth of Chicago.

Sheil, auxiliary bishop of this archdiocese, is the founder of the Catholic Youth Organization.

The Lions Club award has been granted only nine times since the club was founded 37 years ago.

The last recipient was McCarthy. It was given to him in August, 1950, for "Americanism." In an acceptance speech, McCarthy bitterly assailed then Secretary of State Dean Acheson and accused a committee headed by former Sen. Millard Tydings, Maryland, of "whitewashing" the State Department.

Sheil, in a speech last Friday before a CIO United Auto Workers meeting here, charged McCarthy is a "city slicker" who has worked a political "shell game" on the American public with sensational charges of communism in government.

Greater Alton Group Claims Site Impresses AF Academy Commission

ELSAH, Ill. (AP)—Walter T. Woodcock, executive director of the Greater Alton Chamber of Commerce, said today three members of the Air Force Academy Commission were favorably impressed by a site here for the new national officers' training school.

The commission has covered 11 states in its effort to find an appropriate spot.

Woodcock said that members favored the 9,000-acre Chautauqua site because of its environment for education, topography, easy accessibility and nearness to a large city.

Mrs. Steve Farrar Hostess To Presbyterian Fidelis Class

The Fidelis class of the First Presbyterian church met Tuesday evening, April 13, with Mrs. Steve Farrar.

Mrs. Walter Coulter gave an impressive devotion from the Presbyterian Life, entitled "Would Have Denied or Betrayed," with scripture from St. Luke, chapter 22.

Plans were discussed on furnishings for the new class room at the church.

Mrs. Louis Gall Jr. was the winner of two games that were played.

Delicious refreshments of log cabin pudding, candy and coffee were served to Mrs. Louis Gall Jr., Mrs. Walter Coulter, Miss Edith Morrison, Mrs. Suzanne Horvath, Mrs. Verner Joyner Sr., Miss Mary Jane Morrison, Miss Julia Williamson, Mrs. Ora Stiff and two guests, Mrs. Carrie Wilson and Mrs. Pearl Thompson.

Fail to Settle Dispute At Paducah, Oak Ridge

a full-fledged strike of production workers at Oak Ridge, although there have been many work stoppages on various construction projects at the atomic installation.

Seek Wage Increase

The workers involved include 8,000 members of the AFL Atomic Trades and Labor Council and the CIO Gas, Coke and Chemical Workers at Oak Ridge, and 1,000 members of the same unions at Paducah.

They were seeking "a substantial wage increase," Mills said, from Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Co., the firm which operates the production facilities for the government.

The workers are principally hourly-paid maintenance employees and skilled craftsmen as distinguished from salaried scientific employees. At Oak Ridge, they are employed in the national laboratory, the gaseous diffusion plant and at the top-secret V12 installation.

Their present wage scale ranges from $1.58 an hour for laborers to $2.56 for skilled workers. They received a 7-cent hourly boost last year.

The exact increase being sought currently never has been disclosed by union company.

President Calls Southwest Drought, Dust Relief Conference

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower today called a special southwestern drought and dust storm relief conference at the White House April 26.

The chief executive invited the governors of Texas, Oklahoma,

Kansas, New Mexico and Colorado to the meeting.

Mr. Eisenhower in telegrams to the five state officials said he was deeply concerned about conditions in the Southwest and wanted to attack not only the immediate situation, but the long range need for improved land utilization and soil conservation.

A MODEL OF A SPACE SHIP will be on display in Harrisburg tomorrow, on the square, under the auspices of Pankey's Bakery. Although not a working model, the interior of the rocket-powered ship is designed to show what would actually be in the real ships now being designed for trips into outer space. It was built in San Diego as first prize in a Ralston Purina contest, and is being displayed here by Jack Urban. It will appear later with the King Reid shows. The ship will be open from 10:00 a. m. to 9:00 p. m. tomorrow.

Says GM Supplied Army with 6,420 Faulty Tanks

WASHINGTON AP — Brig. Gen. J. B. Medaris has told Congress that General Motors Corp. furnished the Army 6,420 faulty tank transmissions last year. The general said he doesn't know how much money the government lost on the transmissions but promised that GM's will get excellent training fixing them.

Medaris' testimony before a House Appropriation subcommittee March 4 was made public Thursday night.

He said the Allison division of General Motors was given permission in March, 1953, to change the way it assembled a key screw in the transmission in order to save time.

In December, 1953, the Marines reported the first sign of trouble. Similar complaints followed from the 1st Armored Division at Fort Hood, Tex., Medaris said.

They found that the screws were working loose, he said. The Army had 1,800 tanks in which the transmissions were made before the mistake was found, Medaris testified. In addition there are 4,620 transmissions for use as replacements in tanks not yet in operation.

Medaris said military personnel are fixing them all.

Small Tornadoes Hit Florida, Alabama Areas

PANAMA CITY, Fla. AP — Small tornadoes dipped into three towns in southern Alabama and north-west Florida today, and the Weather Bureau posted a day-long tornado alert for most of Georgia. High winds and driving rains swept areas through Alabama, Georgia and east Tennessee, causing traffic crashes and littering highways with debris.

No fatalities were reported from the tornadoes and damage was comparatively light.

At Panama City, Fla., a small tornado dipped into a residential section, destroying a small cafe building and damaging at least seven homes.

Clyde Cooper, 50-year-old cafe operator, was hospitalized with serious injuries.

Another tornado was sighted at Crystal Lake, 20 miles north of here. Residents said a funnel-shaped cloud roared across the lake, but did no damage.

At Enterprise, Ala., winds blew away two farm houses but the three persons in them escaped injury.

tial elements" of the American position had been discussed at length with leaders of both political parties in Congress. Then Mr. Eisenhower listed his main points:

1. Continuance of "necessary and appropriate" American armed forces in Europe, including Germany, so that this country might "contribute its fair share needed for the joint defense of the Atlantic area while a threat to that area exists . . ."

2. Consultation with NATO and EDC nations on "questions of mutual concern, including the level of the respective armed forces in the EDC . . ."
3. A promise of "the closest possible integration" of U. S. and NATO armed forces with those of EDC.
4. A continued effort, contingent on approval of the American Congress, to seek means of "increased security by sharing in greater measure information with respect to the military utilization of new weapons and techniques for the improvement of the collective defense." This was an obvious reference to the atomic and hydrogen bombs.

5. Preservation of the unity of EDC. "The United States will regard any action from whatever quarter which threatens that integrity or unity as a threat to the security of the United States."

Dulles Plans Only Short Stay at Geneva Conference

PARIS (AP)—U. S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told diplomats he plans to spend "only about one week" at the Geneva conference, authoritative sources said today, because he does not expect the Communists to negotiate seriously for peace.

Dulles disclosed during his brief Paris visit this week he intends to turn over U. S. reins at the conference on Korean and Indochinese peace to Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith, these sources said.

The secretary may change his mind if the Soviet delegates and their Chinese allies surprise him with some concrete and truly negotiable peace projects, the informants said.

getting a new factory would not be of too much benefit. He suggested that all aspects of the community's social, cultural and economic life be studied thoroughly to develop some possible solutions which would improve Eldorado from the ground up.

Approximately 200 persons volunteered to take a door-to-door census which showed that Eldorado's population had dropped from 4,500 to 4,675 between 1950 and 1953, and young people were moving away in large numbers to seek greater opportunities elsewhere.

While the population committee was looking for some kind of answer to this outmigration, other committees made up of hundreds of citizens were looking into business, farming, schools, churches, recreation, public health and other fields to determine where Eldorado could use some improvement and how this could be accomplished.

Eldorado leaders point out that it is still too early to predict what the material results will be but the co-operation between all factions in a community can go a long way toward achieving goals which otherwise would be impossible.

Poston has stated he believes that small towns all over America are on the downgrade because people have lost sight of the values of pioneer democracy.

Merchants Play At Mayfield, Ky., Sunday Afternoon

The Harrisburg Merchants journeyed to Mayfield, Ky., Sunday afternoon, seeking their first road victory of the season.

Mayfield, a colored club, dropped the Merchants twice last year as Mickey Stubblefield handcuffed the local hitters. Stubblefield, a right-hander with an assortment of curves, was the first Negro player to be signed by a Kitty league club.

Many local fans will remember the Mayfield receiver who handled Stubblefield's difficult slants with ease in any position from a prone posture to lying at right angles to the plate.

Joe Yarber or Billy McNew will be the local starting hurler with Dick Romonovsky behind the plate. Big Junior Dunbar, Freddie Williams, Dick Odle and Harold Guley will round out the infield with Jim Parton, Frank Logsdon and Ray Sisky in the outer gardens.

All players are asked to be at the town park diamond at 10 a. m. sharp, ready to leave for the game.

Bull Dogs Blank Galatia, 6-0; Anglin Hurls One-Hitter

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs last night continued their winning ways by taking a 6 to 0 baseball decision from Galatia.

Dave Anglin, lanky sophomore, was on the mound for the locals and he scintillated. He struck out 15, allowed but one hit, a single in the final frame, and faced only 21 batters in the seven innings he pitched. One batter walked and was tagged off first base immediately on the old hidden ball trick. The other, Bob Orto, singled in the seventh, a good, solid smash to left and later was tagged out trying for third after he had stolen second.

Coch Lawrence Calufetti, aside from Anglin and First Baseman Ed Miller, used two complete teams in the contest.

Yankees Seeking To Trade Robinson To Detroit Tigers

NEW YORK (AP)—First baseman Eddie Robinson was part of a fancy package being put together by the Yankees today in an effort to lure one of two pitchers—either Billy Hoefi or Ted Gray—away from the Tigers.

A deal involving the oft-traded, 33-year-old Robinson will be consummated within the next few weeks, according to a dependable source.

The Yankees are so heavily stocked with first basemen that Casey Stengel trips over one no matter which he turns. In addition to Robinson, who was acquired from the Athletics last December, Joe Collins, Bill Skowron, bonus baby Frank Leja and Irv Noren all can play first for the Yankees.

The left-handed hitting Robinson, who figured to take Johnny Mize's place as pinch hitter de luxe, suddenly became expendable with the acquisition of Enos Slaughter.

Detroit, on the other hand, is seeking a left-handed hitting first baseman like Robinson plus an experienced catcher.

To get the 21-year-old Hoefi, who appeals particularly to Stengel, or Gray, whom the Yankees have always liked, they might even give up catcher Charlie Silvera or outfielder Bill Miller to the Tigers.

And if the Tigers should land Robinson, they would be in a good position to deal first baseman Walt Dropo to Cleveland.

Andrews AF Base Defeats Great Lakes For Service Crown

GREAT LAKES, Ill. (AP)—Andrews Air Force Base, Md., reigned today as the best armed service basketball team in the nation after their easy 91-66 win over Great Lakes Thursday night.

Dick Knottman, center for the winners, tallied 21 points for scoring honors.

Country Slaughterer IN THE Sport Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—The hurt and the bitterness still showed today in the eyes of Enos Slaughter but the country boy from Carolina was "ready and able" to prove that the St. Louis Cardinals made a mistake when they traded him to the New York Yankees.

As the Bronx Bombers came home to Yankee Stadium, there was "Country," big as ever in his Cardinal life and twice as ready. As he ran his eyes over the huge ball park, he said slowly: "The last time I was here I was with a champion—and here I am with a champion again."

That "last time," he recalled, was "just a little while ago" when he led the Cardinals to World Series victory over these same Yankees. The year, actually, was 1942. No Ordinary Ball Player.

But to Enos Slaughter the 12 intervening years mean nothing, just as does the parting inference of the Cardinals that he is about "through."

"I've got a lot of time left," he snorted, running his big hands over the unfamiliar Yankee flannels. "I feel as good as I ever did, no aches and no pains. I'm still 185 pounds, right on the button, and I can hit and run as good as ever. I'll prove it, too."

That, you might think, is a brash statement from a man who two weeks hence will be 38.

But, then, Slaughter is no ordinary ball player, nor even an ordinary man. He conquered a lot of tough breaks through the years because of his bulldog drive, blows which would have beaten many another. Things like shattered collarbones, persistent fevers and a three-year hitch in the Air Force never could halt his onrush.

They thought he was done in 1951 but in 1952 he had a magnificent season. It was typical of Enos, when they lauded his "comeback," that he snorted: "Comeback? Why, I've never been away."

Stunned At Trade
But his trade away from St. Louis floored him—momentarily. For 13 years he had been a part of the Cardinal legend and he thought that because of his current value, and not just gratitude alone, they'd let him play it out with the Redbird on his chest.

"It was one of the roughest things that ever happened," he explained in a low voice. "They called me in and out of a clear sky said I had been traded. I asked them 'Do you think I'm through?' They said no, but they were going with the young guys and had to give them a chance.

"I was stunned," Slaughter added without prompting. "When you put in that many years with one club it has to come as a blow, particularly when you aren't expecting it."

High tight lips broke into a wide smile as he jerked himself back from that parting scene in the Cardinal camp and looked again around the vastness of the Stadium.

"Now I'm going to show them that I'm far from through," he said. "As soon as I get used to the American League parks and the pitchers, I'll make these Yankees glad they took me."

It wasn't the tone of a great Cardinal who had become a Yankee extra. It was more like the promise of a young man with a future.

Braves' Bruton Scores From First on Single in 11th to Beat Cardinals, 7-6

By CARL LUNDQUIST
United Press Sports Writer

There is just something about those poptop opening day crowds in Milwaukee that inspires Bill Bruton.

All of the Milwaukee Madeaps get worked up when those big throngs there cheer them on but Bruton's specialty is to win opening day games in extra innings.

Thursday, as the Braves started the second season of their new major league regime at home before a new record crowd of 39,963, Bruton was on first base in the 11th inning when Danny O'Connell singled to center. The speedy Negro took advantage of a slow relay in by center fielder Rip Repulski and raced all the way home for the winning run in a 7-6 triumph over the Cardinals.

Just a year ago on opening day in Milwaukee, the same Bruton beat the same Cardinals in 10 innings, 3-2 when he broke up the game with a homer. No wonder they're all "rootin' for Bruton" out there.

Dodgers Get Three Homers
Earlier in the game, the Braves shook up ex-Yankee, Vic Raschi and sent him to a quick shower as Joe Adcock hit a three-run homer in the first and the Braves added another tally in the second.

Warren Spahn, who was far from being at his best, struggled through to an 11-hit victory, although touched for three runs in the ninth including a two-run homer by Sal Yvars as the Cardinals locked the score.

The Dodgers still were homer-happy, getting three in a 7-4 triumph over the Pirates, the Phils blanked the Giants, 2-0, in a rain-shortened 6 1/2 inning game; and Cincinnati outslugged Chicago, 11-5. In the American League, Baltimore had a winning inaugural, topping the White Sox 3-1 as Bob Turley scattered seven hits in the first major league game there in 52 years; the Yankees blanked Philadelphia, 3-0; Boston topped Washington, 6-1; and Detroit outlasted Cleveland in the rain, 3-2.

Dickson Beats Giants
Junior Gilliam, Jackie Robinson and Roy Campanella delivered homers early for the Dodgers to provide a 6-0 cushion. Campanella hit his third in as many days with two on for the big blow. Russ Meyer gained the victory although the cold bothered him and the Pirates scored three in the eighth when Jim Hughes came in to rescue him from a none-out bases loaded jam. Frank Thomas hit a Pittsburgh homer.

Murry Dickson scattered seven hits in the Phils' triumph. Loser Johnny Antonelli yielded only three but the Giant left's two-base throwing error on a bunt by Ted Kazanski set up the winning run. Kazanski took third on a passed ball and scored on Stan Lopata's sacrifice fly.

Jim Greengrass hit a grand slam homer in a six run seventh inning rally while Gus Bell homered with a man in Cincinnati's extra-base demonstration at Chicago. Ex-Cub Fred Baczewski struck out seven to gain the victory although he needed relief help after Hank Sauer and Randy Jackson homered in a four-run seventh.

46,354 Welcome Orioles
Clint Courtney hit the first homer and Junior Stephens the second in Baltimore's new American League regime and Turley needed no more

KILL WITH CARE

Mark and Jim started around a winding path toward the cat balcony and the fence. Richards stumbled, caught himself, reached down and picked up a large ball of heavy fish line, wound in neat spirals on a piece of wood. He put it down quickly in the exact place he had found it, turned to Bruce. "This yours?"

"Let's see. Yes, I have some like it in that little shed there. Use it to knit trellises. Don't know what it's doing out here though."

"Leave it where it is now," Richards ordered.

He and Jim reached the high board fence, got a hold on the top and pulled themselves far enough up so they could see over. They could see a meandering red brick path which led from a back gate in the high fence to the open door of the basement of the Mansfield house.

A short scramble, and both were onto the shed roof. They crossed it, dropped to the path, walked toward the open door.

When Jim looked over his shoulder he could see the row of cat heads. Twelve heads and two dozen eyes, fixed on them.

The light at the foot of the stairs shone down on the automatic pistol.

Richards said, "A 22." He stepped carefully over the gun and the mark in the hard dirt, started up the steep stairs. Jim wondered if it was only imagination, or if he could actually smell the burned charge from exploded shells.

The back door at the first landing was open too, permitted entrance into an immaculate kitchen. Immaculate, that is, except for the bloodstains, a larger pool of hardening blood and the two pipe wrenches on the linoleum floor.

They followed the trail of droplets through the kitchen, through a book-lined room which was obviously a library, down the hall and into the front room they had visited the night before.

The blood trail ended at the work desk.

Gaylord Mansfield sat there in the single chair, slumped forward so his head and shoulders rested on the desk's surface. There was a still-damp stain on the papers.

Jim bent over the desk, looked down at the bloody sheet of paper under Mansfield's right hand. The old-fashioned steel pen lay nearby where it had fallen from relaxing fingers.

Jim looked again at the face, resting on one cheek. It appeared much younger today, in spite of the pallor.

Jim read the one word, "The." The steel pen point had stabbed the paper, had left a blot as it spilled from fingers which no longer could control it.

Within 10 minutes, both Dr. Frank Pardon and the ambulance had arrived, a condition which spoke wonders for Mark Richards' ability to impress others with a state of emergency. Pardon did not hold out much hope.

Shot twice, fairly close range, I'd say. In shock now. Lost a lot of blood. Not more than two hours ago I'd say."

He had worked deftly and quickly as he talked. In another few minutes, the ambulance clanged away, while plasma seeped slowly into the old man's veins.

Without the bustle of the ambulance men, and Pardon's hurried care, the workroom seemed ever barer and emptier. It was quiet, a dead quiet which told of soundproofing.

"You think that Bruce is telling the truth?" Jim asked. "His only knowledge of this came through the actions of his cats?"

"With him, it could be true," Mark said. He went to the door to admit some fingerprint men. They went back through the library, lined from floor to ceiling with shelves filled with books.

There were no windows at all and the indirect lighting still burned. Jim selected one of the books at random. He had never heard of the author, or the publisher for that matter. A glance at the front pages told him the book had come out in 1908. He opened several more. The most recent book he found had been published in 1910.

Jim looked around for Mark, found him in the kitchen poking cautiously at the larger pool of blood on the linoleum.

"You think he was shot here?"

"Yes. Someone opened the back door. Maybe Mansfield himself. Maybe he was doing some work with those two pipe wrenches."

"Funny time of day for it."

"You were there when we talked to him before. Or read his notes, at least. He strike you as a man who would care about the time of day?"

"No."

"All right, then. Mansfield comes to the back door. A couple of shots, not too loud from that 22. The gun thrown away, probably from this landing. And the killer—or attempted murderer if you want to be technical—makes his getaway down through the basement and out the back way to the alley. Maybe the cats were watching, but I guess that was the only batch of witnesses."

"Why throw the gun away from the landing if the killer was going out that way?"

Mark's forehead wrinkled. "We'll have to make a few experiments to match up that dent in the hard ground of the basement walkway. I don't know why the gun was thrown there. Either the killer wanted us to find the gun or he got panicky and dropped it."

"You're probably right," Jim admitted. "So the old man was shot here in the kitchen. Left for dead. Eventually he regains consciousness and makes his way to his workroom."

Ask Legislation for Disposal of Gov't Owned Communities at Two A-Projects

WASHINGTON (U. P.) — Administration legislation was introduced in the House and Senate Thursday to dispose of the government-owned communities at the Oak Ridge, Tenn., and Richland, Wash., atomic installations.

The bill, introduced by Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-N. Y.) and Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), calls for turning the communities over to local governments as soon as they can be established.

They said in a joint announcement that the government-owned community at Los Alamos, N. M., "in the very near future" may also be disposed of. But their legislation does not include Los Alamos.

They said the bill was worked out with the approval of the atomic energy commission. It provides:

1. AEC assistance to residents in the establishment of local self-government.
2. As soon as local self-governments are set up, the AEC will be prepared to transfer governmental responsibilities and donate municipal facilities to them.
3. Subsequent to transfer of government functions to the local governments, the AEC will have divested itself of all power and responsibility over local decisions.
4. A federal contribution to maintain essential municipal services and operate schools and hospitals at a reasonable level for 10 years.
5. Single family and duplex residence houses will be sold at 90 per cent of appraised value under a system of priorities. The priorities will give preference to present tenants and AEC employees purchasing rights over the general public.
6. Existing tenants of commercial, church, and non-profit proper-
